Re-entry scholarship for female postdocs with care responsibilities

- Are you a female postdoc with family care responsibilities and would like to continue your academic career?
- Would you like to cooperate with a TU Darmstadt department on a scholarship?

The postdoc phase is a decisive stage in a scientific career, and female researchers in particular often take a leave from pursuing their careers during this time to take on family care responsibilities. TU Darmstadt offers postdoctoral researchers the opportunity to work on an independent research proposal and continue their academic careers through the re-entry scholarship.

For more women in science

The re-entry scholarship supports female postdoctoral researchers who have paused their academic career due to family caregiving responsibilities (taking care of children or other dependent family members).

A monthly stipend of 1800€ is given to up to two scholars for a duration of 10 months. A one-time extension of 5 months is allowed, as is reapplication.

It is important that you emphasise your own research profile and your position in the scientific community in your application.

Applications are open to female researchers from Germany and abroad.

The application deadline is May 1st and November 1st

Please submit your application, consisting of:

- Motivation letter (including scope and extent of your own research, international and national networking, publication achievements)
- Exposé of the intended research highlights (approx. two DIN A4 pages)
- Academic CV
- List of publications
- Two letters of recommendation from professors in which they comment on the scientific achievements and prospects of success of the project (application)
- Declaration by a head of chair TU Darmstadt in which they declare that the infrastructure required for the research (factual and personal) is provided by their department free of charge
